

Weapons D6 / PLS-8 Plastique Explosive

PLS-8 Plastique Explosive

Plastique is a generic term given to older putty-like explosives usually formed in blocks. These explosives can be quite powerful, though not as powerful as some modern weapons. The plastique is wadded together with electronic detonators stuck into the wad and set either for remote detonation or else with a timer placed on. The PLS-8 is one of the best of the brick form Plastique and is seen in the hands of truly professional terrorists. They are most often seen with the spokes of remote detonator receivers sticking from their tops, although timers are not unheard of.
