RB-23 General Purpose Medium Repeating Blaster

the most numerous and reliable repeating blaster in Imperial StormElite service is the RB-23, or Repeating Blaster 23. Light and mobile, SE infantry units can utilize the RB-23 under the most chaotic battlefield scenarios in the galaxy.

The RB-23 is an air-cooled repeating blaster, and with that after a long period of fire the barrel becomes out of alignment with its sights because of the intense heat produced. So, in that sense, the barrel needs to be changed after every 3000 or so blast bolts fired (however this may vary with battlefield situations).

To make the barrel changing process as quick as possible, the RB-23 has a side-ejecting barrel that is as easy to remove as pressing a button on the side of the weapon and pulling the barrel out. Once a new barrel is slid in and locked in place, the RB-23 is ready for another 3000 blast bolts of fire. Once the ejected barrel has cooled down for a few minutes, it is reinserted into the weapon until the other barrel is cool.

The RB-23 is a rather voracious weapon. In theory, 2000 blast bolts per minute (bb/m) can be fired from the weapon. That would make for [approx] 33 blast bolts per second, a very good statistic for any repeating blaster crew. Ammunition for the RB-23 can vary from a simple 250-round attachment blast pack to an unlimited round power generator hook-up. Generally, power generators are incorporated whenever possible.

Model: BlasTech RB-23 Medium Repeating Blaster

Cost: 1,750cr (250-round pack: 250cr)

Damage: 5d8

Critical: 19-20

Range Increment: 57.5m

Weight: 20kg

Type: Energy

Size: Large

Group: Heavy

Ammo: 250 (Power Generator: Unlimited)

Singlefire/Multifire/Autofire: MF/AF (-2/-4)

Game Notes:

When a character is hit by an RB-23 shot, roll 1d6. If the roll is 1-3, roll normal damage. If the roll is 4-6, damage is x2 (because of the intense rate of fire, the character is likely to be hit by more than one bolt.)

The RB-23 must be fired from either its detachable bipod or a tripod, If fired without one of these two attachments, the MF/AF penalty returns to MF: -4/ AF: -6.
