Description: The Outland TIE fighter was a class of TIE line starfighters that was used by an Imperial remnant after the fall of the Galactic Empire, during the New Republic Era. Otherwise congruent to the appearance of a standard TIE/In space superiority starfighter, the Outland TIE fighter's wings folded when landing on a levelled surface, allowing for ease of access to the cockpit and creating a distinctive form not dissimilar to that of an X-wing starfighter with its S-foils in a closed position.

A model of the Sienar Fleet Systems' TIE line, the Outland TIE fighter had model-specific landing gear similar to that of the T-65B and T-70 X-wing starfighters flown by the New Republic Defense Fleet. The starfighter had an outward appearance very similar to the TIE/ln space superiority starfighter when in flight, but its solar collector panel wings had the additional capability of folding at the center to form a V-shape. Once folded, it allowed the Outland TIE to land on any level surface utilizing its recessed landing gear, permitting easy embarkation or disembarkation of the pilot without a hangar rack armature or a specialized landing pad. It also featured other accoutrements.

The Outland TIE fighter was used by Gideon's Imperial remnant around 9 ABY. Moff Gideon used one such fighter to travel to Nevarro with his forces. After Din Djarin, Carasynthia Dune, Greef Karga, IG-11, and the Child escaped the Nevarro cantina and were able to escape the city, Gideon used his Outland TIE fighter to engage the group. Djarin used his jetpack and grappling line to board Gideon's fighter and plant explosives on it, bringing the Outland TIE crashing to Nevarro's surface. Gideon then used the darksaber to escape the wrecked hull.
