

Starships D6 / Revenge Missile Frigate

Revenge Missile Frigate

A thirst for vengeance often motivates a population segment to put greater effort into a war. Many aliens thirst for vengeance from the Yuuzhan Vong, but what population segment has been genocidally massacred in every Vong planetary invasion? Droids. Thus it was formulated that ship with a sophisticated central computer and crewed with droids would be effective and expendable. But only if informed of what had been done to their fellow droids by the Yuuzhan Vong.

The "Revenge" class frigate is the product of that thought. The "Revenge"-class is a heavy modification of the failed "Lancer" frigate. It carries a huge battery of Concussion Missile Tubes and a defensive array of Quad Lasers. All critical ship's systems (weapons, engines, shields, and computers) can be shut down from the commanding Star Destroyer if the droids turn. If tampered with, these fail-safes will detonate the ship's fusion reactor and missile magazines. The ship normally goes into combat unpressurized as droids do not need an atmosphere to operate. The "Revenge" is simple enough to be produced at even small shipyards.
