Special Abilities:

Myrddraal Steel: Forged with arcane rituals and human sacrifices these blades are made in the forges of a place known as Thrakan`dar. If a character receives a wounded status or higher his wound level increases one level every hour unless or until put into full bacta submersion. Nothing but bacta or the force will heal the wound so medkits will not help. With modern technology this has become less of a problem but it is still deadly.

Fear: Any person who meets a Myrddraal's gaze must make a Very Difficult Willpower roll. Failure means they are totally frozen in place or run in sheer terror(GM's discretion). "To look into the gaze of the Eyeless is to know fear"

Shadow Traveling: A Myrddraal may move instantaneously through shadows. they may only move about this way to place on the same planet. By fully submerging themselves in a shadow they can instantaneously travel to any other shadow deep enough to fully envelop them. they themselves don't quite know how. They step in one shadow and step out of the one they wish. They may not bring anyone through with them this way.

Slow Dying: A Myrddraal is relentless in their pursuit to kill and it is said they refuse to admit when they die. They suffer on shock penalties (stunned wound level) and stun weapons have no effect on them. When they take a kill they will remain alive thrashing about spasmodically trying to kill anything that gets near it still. It will remain like this for 3D minutes then will finally die.

Blood: A Myrddraal's blood etches metal faster than the most powerful acids. While it will not harm stone or wood or even flesh, any metal touched by Myrddraal blood will take a cumulative 2D damage every round starting 4 rounds after contact(i.e. 2D damage first round, 4D next round, 6d after, 8d after that etc.) until it is wiped off or the metal is destroyed. Thus a blade used to strike a Myrddraal is quickly ruined if the wielder is unwary.

Trolloc Commanders: Myrddraal almost never fight alone, they command hordes of Trollocs. Because the Trollocs fear the Myrddraal more than the enemy or death they will go into battle full heartedly. Some Myrddraal actually link their Trollocs to them. Trollocs so bonded get +1d to all skills, however if a Trolloc horde so bonded's Myrddraal is slain they will all fall in agony and automatically take an incapacitated level wound. A non-bonded horde may break and run also if their Myrddraal is slain.

Story factors:

Myth: Myrddraal have existed since times before the Old Republic's founding. They are clouded in myths with hundreds of different names, half men, Myrddraal, the Eyeless, Lurk, Fetch, Shadowman, and Fade. Many people believe all sorts of things that are not true about them, the most prominent of which is that they don't exist.

Myrddraal Swords:

Body: 4D

Damage: STR+3D+1

Game Note: A character who wields this blades gains a Dark Side Point anytime they inflict damage with it due to it being totally imbued with the dark side.

Myrddraal Armor

Resist: +2D physical, +1D energy

Move: 13

Size: 2.2 meters tall
