Description: The Power Claw is designed for the same purposes as Galactech's Power

Gloves, but uses far lower technology to achieve a similar if not greater effect. With three molecular bonded durasteel blades which can be crushed together using their hydraulic actuators to devastating result cutting through armour, hull plating and opponents with similar ease, the Power Claw is a clumsy but extremely dangerous weapon in combat. Although they haven't become overly popular, and a number of worlds have banned their use due to their particularly gruesome method of dispatching opponents, the Power Claw has sold reasonably well and started to become popular with pirates because of its dual use in boarding actions.
