Description: Bug Bots were a type of droid created by the droidsmith Rek Minuu sometime before or during 230 BBY. They could attach themselves to droids and apply an effect similar to a restraining bolt which allowed the user of a control device to control the droid, the droids eyes would change colour, and they would follow the wielder of the remotes instructions exactly without any chance to override the commands. They could be removed by making a Droid Repair (Moderate).
