Creatures D6 / Mee (Poisonous Fish)

Name: Mee
Designation: Non-sentient
Classification: Scalefish
Skin color: Yellow and brown
Eye color: Red
Distinctions: Poisonous spine
Point of origin: Naboo, Koboh, Sakavi Tar
Habitat: Swamps and oceans
Diet: Carnivore

Dexterity: 2D
Perception: 1D
Strength: 2D

Special Abilities

Poisonous Spine: Mee Fish have a poisonous spine, which is a 4D poison when consumed, although a cook can cut around the spine to allow the Mee Fish to be safely consumed.

Fangs: Mee Fish have hundreds of small, razor-like teeth to tear apart the small fish they consumed. This presented an additional danger to sentient beings, since the mee would often draw blood with their teeth. These do Str+1D damage in combat.

Move: 9 (Swimming)

Description: The Mee, also called the mee fish, were a species of scalefish native to the planet Naboo. They lived alongside six other scalefish species in the waters around the city Otoh Gunga in Lake Paonga, and could also be found in the Abyss, where they were preyed upon indiscriminately by the large colo claw fish and opee sea killers that dwelt there. Like most other scalefish, they were hebivorous, but could pose a danger because of their poisonous spine.
The mee fish could also be found on the Outer Rim planet Koboh and on Sakavi Tar, where they had a different temperament. The mee on Koboh were deceptive fish that were daring predators. These fish used their hundreds of small, razor-like teeth to tear apart the small fish they consumed. This presented an additional danger to sentient beings, since the mee would often draw blood with their teeth. In 9 BBY, Sakavian fisherman Skoova Stev caught a mee fish in Prospector's Folly on Koboh, which he subsequently put in the aquarium in the nearby Pyloon's Saloon.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.