Description: Security Droid Enforcer was a variant of the KX-series security droid.

Description
They were equipped with electro riot batons, and designed primarily to train Imperial stormtroopers in the use of the electrobaton. They had a reinforced chassis, making them sturdier than a standard KX-series security droid.

History
In 9 BBY, K-4O5, a Security Droid Enforcer, led Jedi Knight Cal Kestis to Imperial Senator Daho Sejan on Coruscant. Kestis faked a capture to get closer to the senator and his starship, on which Sejan had stored Imperial military information. Kestis intended to deliver the information to Partisan rebel leader Saw Gerrera. K-4O5 found Kestis again after his escape and confronted him, but the droid was destroyed in the fight with Kestis and his ally, Bode Akuna. Several more were stationed on Koboh, with one defending Imperial Post 8L-055 against Kestis' attack, Jedha, and the Imperial Security Bureau's II-0810 Satellite Station in the Nova Garon system.
