Description: TK-0228 was a human TK stormtrooper of the Galactic Empire stationed on the planet Janix at some point between 17 BBY and around 13 BBY. They pursued Jedi Master Eeko-Dio Daki and his Padawan Devon Izara in a failed attempt to capture them for not showing proper identification.

Biography

A human TK stormtrooper, TK-0228 was deployed to the planet Janix at some point between 17 BBY and around 13 BBY. the Galactic Empire deployed an Imperial I-class Star Destroyer to the planet Janix after being tipped off by Two-Boots of the Janix Tactical Defense Force to the presence of Jedi fugitives in hiding on the planet. Upon arrival, the Star Destroyer deployed numerous Low Altitude Assault Transport/infantry gunships and Rho-class transport shuttles to ferry TK stormtroopers to the planet's surface, in which TK-0228 was included.

As Imperial forces spread out across Janix city, stormtroopers began randomly stopping civilians and demanded identification in order to root out Maul's forces and the Jedi. TK-0228 and a contingent of troopers were stationed inside of a train station when the two Jedi, Jedi Master Eeko-

Dio Daki and his apprentice Devon Izara, stumbled into the Imperial soldiers. When asked by a stormtrooper for identification, Daki used a mind trick to make the trooper believe they were clear to pass. Having noticed this, TK-0228 walked over and asked why the trooper had allowed the two to pass without presenting identification, resulting in the stormtroopers chasing the two Jedi.

After a brief scuffle and chase throughout the station, the stormtroopers lost the two Jedi. TK-0228 reported their findings over their helmet comms before continuing their search for the two Jedi.

Equipment
TK-0228 was equipped with standard issue TK stormtrooper armor and a DC-15A blaster carbine.
