Description: Screerats were a species of rat found on the planet Corellia. They infested the Den of the gang known as the White Worms and the gang's scumrats were expected to capture the vermin. The scumrats added the rodents to their breakfast sludge, although the choicest screerats were fed to the gang's leader, Lady Proxima, or her children.

Biology and appearance

Screerats were a type of rat that had pink skin and brown fur. Their tails had a clubbed end.

History

Screerats could be found in urban regions on the planet Corellia. Some creatures had evolved long tongues that could whip out and catch screerats. In Coronet City, the Den of the White Worms gang was infested with screerats and other vermin. The members of the gang known as scumrats hunted the rodents as part of their duties, bring the choicest specimens to their leader, Lady Proxima, who either ate the screerats or fed them to her children.

The scumrat Tsuulo repurposed a small fleet of janitor droids into ratcatcher droids to hunt vermin in the den, and they could be relied upon to catch several screerats or vervikks per day. These screerats would then be added to the scumrat's breakfast sludge in order to provide some much needed protein. When the human scumrat Han was starving, he claimed he would be willing to eat a raw screerat, although his fellow scumrat Qi'ra found this disgusting. When Han stole a M-68 landspeeder in 13 BBY, he drove under a screerat climbing along a length of wiring.
