Fearsome Appearance: The Yuuzhan Vong Implanter recieves an additional +1D to Intimidation. If a character makes a successful Heroic Alien Species check, the Implanter recieves an additional +2D Intimidation for a grand total of +3D.

Neurolitic Pain Appendages: The Implanter is equipped with one or more feathery appendages. These appendages carry a neurotoxin within their filaments which, upon contact with skin, causes extreme amounts of pain. A character attempting to resist or control pain caused by an Implanter must make a Heroic+5 Stamina check.

Surge-Coral Implanters: Small grasping limbs affixed to the back of the Implanter are among the most important limbs. These tiny graspers implant Yorik-Kul seeds into victims' flesh.

Description: Perhaps one of the most feared creatures possessed by the Yuuzhan Vong, the Implanter was the surgical creature the Yuuzhan Vong used to implant Yorik-Kul (literally "Surge-Coral") into their slaves and prisoners. The Implanter was, like nearly every other Yuuzhan Vong biotically created creature, a controlled mutation of an original crustacean from their homeworld, Yuuzhan'tar. The Implanter, also known as a 'creeper', would inflict extreme pain to disable their victims, then implant their seeds. Aside from this, the Implanters had little other purpose.
