

Weapons D6 / Exonerator Manicles

Exonerator Manicles

The manicles are silver bracelets that are placed around the wrists of a specific wearer. The manicles are filled with electrodes but are carved into an artistic and beautiful design. When used correctly they should coordinate with the Exonerator Cane in perfect unison. With every tap or slam of the cane's base onto the ground, a brilliant visible electric current is forced into the wearer of the manicles body. With every tap of the cane the surge becomes stronger and more deadly. Also, each time the surge is inflicted into the body, it is consumed more by the electric current. In other words, the current is seen more visibly and is over a greater space than before. Color will also change in the current. Beginning with a yellowish flash around the wrists, and most likely finally ending with a ruby red surge that makes any spectators unable to see the wearer of the manicles. Those who wear the manicles that aren't a match for them are most likely to be killed. The manicles will also react to manipulation of the wearer. If they try to remove them, they will receive another surge.
