Trade Federation AAT-W

The AAT-W is the water variant of the Armored Assault Tank used by the Trade Federation. The differences are numerous, but the basic design is the same. Instead of a large turret atop the vessel, the AAT-W has a high-powered blaster cannon mounted in its nose. It also has two fragmentation torpedo launchers for heavy assaults - one forward, one aft.

Other modifications from the basic AAT design include a sonar search system, stronger hull, and the lack of a strong repulsorlift system. In order to be taken back to base, the AAT-W lifts off of the surface approximately 0.5 meters, then is picked up by a specialized landing barge (type C-9877) which has a crane apparatus. The AAT-W also acts as a relay system between the aqua droids and the droid control ship - the drones are too small to carry high-power equipment such as that needed to pierce through the water and atmosphere all the way to the Droid Control Ship.
