Loader Maintenance Walker

The MGS-L is completely unarmed, and the only one of the metal gear line to be so. It is equipped only with repair tools and extra ammunition. It repairs and reloads other Metal Gears during combat. Its large manipulators can carry just about anything including spare nuclear missiles. The loaders carry several thousand round of shells for each kind of firearm used by the metal gears, three spare nukes of any one kind and an extra rack of cruise missiles. This allows it to maintain any kind of metal gear during battle. It is also equipped with spare parts, micro-sensors, plasma torches, and other repair tools. These craft are invaluable among a force of metal gears and will always be seen in great abundance in a group of them.
