Starships D6 / Zann Consortium Vengeance-c

Vengeance-class frigate
The Vengeance-class frigate was a starship used by Tyber Zann and his criminal organization during the Galactic Civil War. These ships had the ability to cloak using technology Zann bought from the black market. However, due to a side effect of this addition, the ships possessed no shields. To make up for it, they were equipped with extremely thick armor for protection. Also, these ships were equipped with mass drivers, so their weapons would entirely bypass an enemy's ray shields and could overheat their cores to self-destruct if the situation called for it.
