Description: Amuncie Tidian was a Boosodian male forger who was active on the planet Kijimi shortly before its destruction in 35 ABY. During the First Order's occupation of the planet, he exited a building in Kijimi City but then immediately retreated back inside after spotting a nearby First Order patrol.

Amuncie Tidian was a Boosodian male who worked as a forger during the war between the First Order and the Resistance. During the First Order's occupation of the planet Kijimi in 35 ABY, Tidian exited a building within the Thieves' Quarter of Kijimi City while a spotlight was being shone upon its door.

Tidian called out and then looked around, not seeing the Resistance pilot Poe Dameron who was hidden nearby, but spotting a First Order patrol attempting to enter another neighbouring building. This caused him to call out in an alarm and retreat back to within the building, closing the door behind him. Shortly after this event, the First Order enacted Protocol 13 and abandoned the planet, before destroying it with the Xyston-class Star Destroyer Derriphan.

Personality and traits
As a Boosodian, Amuncie Tidian could focus clusters of his twenty eyes on specific portions of the electromagnetic spectrum including X-rays and, with a large amount of effort, radio waves. He became convinced that he was able to see the future, crediting his supposed ability to a non-existent extra eye. Tidian had gray skin and white eyes.

Equipment
Tidian wore a black insulated environment suit and black boots.
