

Weapons D6 / Merr-Sonn Munitions S-5

8.8cm S-5 Recoiless Field Gun

Doubling as both an artillery piece and anti-tank weapon, the S-5 serves as the main field gun of the StormElite. The S-5 has been in service since the Battle of Yavin, and has given artillery divisions a weapon that is superior in both quality and firepower than most enemy artillery pieces.

Legion General Alwen Kowell pioneered the use of the 8.8cm field gun as an anti-tank weapon during the desert war in the Scornian Desert of Drakos. He and his Desert Corps gained 45% of their tank kills in the desert with the S-5, giving it a good starting reputation.

In the opening score of the Commonwealth Sector War, the 2nd SE Repulsor Division "The Empire" used the S-5 as a means of reducing heavily built-up enemy position in urbanized areas so that the division's repulsortanks could get through with minimal losses. This tactic worked until the Commonwealth Army was able to use the remaining city's rubble as a defensive advantage.
