Description: CT-0292, nicknamed "Vaughn," was a Clone Captain who served in the 332nd Company of the 501st Legion that was assigned to Clone Commander CT-7567 "Rex" and former Jedi Padawan Ahsoka Tano. Captain Vaughn participated in the Siege of Mandalore towards the end of the Clone Wars between the Galactic Republic and the Confederacy of Independent Systems. During the siege, Vaughn led clone jetpack troopers of the 332nd in the capital city of Sundari, and chased Mandalorian super commandos to the Undercity.

After being lured into an ambush, Vaughn's clone troopers were killed until Vaughn succumbed to the same fate. Ahsoka Tano, who was accompanying the troopers arrived to the scene and held Vaughn's hand as she heard his final words.

Personality and traits
CT-0292 was a clone of bounty hunter Jango Fett, and as such stood 1.83 meters tall, had naturally black hair, and tan skin. In spite of Ahsoka Tano no longer being part of the Republic Military, he still called her a commander, showing that he cared for her doing what she did while she was in the Jedi Order. He proved to be eager to rush into combat, which led to his demise in the Undercity of Sundari.

Equipment
CT-0292 wore customized Phase II clone trooper armor and helmet, emblazoned with a stylized version of Tano's facial tattoos, which also covered his visor. While on Mandalore, he was equipped with a DC-15 blaster rifle and a jetpack, and his helmet and shoulder armor included integrated antennas. His helmet also included a modified chin extension, and dark red lines that were distinguished from the color used for the stylized face of Tano.
