Creatures D6 / Convor (Gold and Brown Bird)

Name: Convor
Classification: Bird
Average height: 0.2 meters
Feather color: Gold and brown
Eye color: Black
Homeworld: Atollon, Malachor, Takodana, Wasskah
Habitat: Jungle
Diet: Carnivorous

Dexterity: 4D
Perception: 3D
Strength: 1D

Special Abilities
Quiet Observers: Convor tend to silently observe their targets waiting to strike and feed, but this leads to them often being spotted quietly soaring overhead, or sitting watching events. Their nature grants them a +1D to Search and Sneak skill rolls.

Move: 22
Orneriness: 1D

Description: Convorees (singular: convor) were a species of bird that could be found in several places across the galaxy, including the moon Wasskah,[1] the planets Atollon, Malachor, and Takodana.

They had two eyes, two wings, a beak, a prehensile tail, and a gold and brown plumage. In fact, convorees were very similar in appearance to Kiros birds from the planet Kiros, who also possessed grabbing tails. The two species could be differentiated by the fact that Kiros birds had purple and blue feathers instead of gold and brown.

Convorees were popular as pets throughout the galaxy.[2] During the Clone Wars, a convor was being sold for 60 credits in the town of Pons Ora on the planet Abafar.

In the jungles of Wasskah, convorees worked in pairs to fend off predators such as momongs, lifting those animals into the air together and then dropping them from the treetops. The convoree themselves fed mostly on insects and small rodents.

Visitors who returned from Malachor reported glimpses of convorees.

The birds had a strong connection both to the Force and to Ahsoka Tano.

Stats by FreddyB, descriptive text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.