Description: Elzian was an Ishi Tib who served in the New Republic Defense Fleet as a colonel. In 13 ABY, Colonel Elzian participated at a battle over the planet Pallaxides against the Imperial Remnant aboard an MC80 Liberty type Star Cruiser of the New Republic, where the Ishi Tib was placed under the command of General Han Solo. Elzian reported confidence that the battle would result in a definite New Republic victory, and later expressed concern for General Solo's wellbeing, as the officer had stood watch over the fighting for over forty-eight hours without sleep. The colonel successfully persuaded the commanding officer to rest, although circumstances soon turned to prevent Han Solo from his much-needed break.

Biography
An Ishi Tib who held the rank of colonel in the New Republic Defense Fleet, Elzian was aboard General Han Solo's MC80 Liberty type Star Cruiser during the New Republic's battle against Imperial Remnant forces over the planet Pallaxides in 13 ABY. As Solo, who had stood watch over the battle for over forty-eight hours, remained fixated on the contested world through a viewport on his Star Cruiser's bridge, Colonel Elzian reported to the commanding officer of their apparent victory, giving a brief assessment of the battle; Elzian was certain of their opponent's defeat, remarking that their forces were evidently and decisively trapped. Han Solo agreed, although he was unsatisfied of the Imperials' intent of fighting to their deaths, stating his aversion of having to create unnecessary casualties.

Turning to the colonel, Han Solo ordered the naval forces' retreat and the deployment of ground forces. Colonel Elzian then noted General Solo's lack of rest during his tireless watch over the battle before being interrupted by Solo, who acknowledged the colonel's concern and relinquished command of the Republic's forces to the Ishi Tib. For sleep, the general proceeded to his living quarters. Before he could rest, however, Han Solo was contacted via viewscreen by a Republic officer who exclaimed that the general was needed in the ship's command center, depleting Solo's chance for rest. Nevertheless, the battle over Pallaxides was won by the New Republic as enemy forces eventually capitulated.

Personality and traits
An Ishi Tib, Elzian had green skin and a pair of yellow eyes. During the battle of Pallaxides, the colonel expressed concern for the New Republic forces' commanding officer, General Han Solo, after the human had stood watch over the battle for over forty-eight hours.

Equipment
Along with a pair of dark blue-grey footwear, Elzian wore a dark blue robe with a gold trim that was visually similar to the decorated light blue outfits of bridge personnel staffed aboard Han Solo's MC80 Liberty type Star Cruiser.
