Nebulon C Frigate

The Nebulon C class assault frigate is the modern day answer to increasingly violent commerce raids on Imperial convoys. The older Nebulon B frigates were lacking in several areas, with weak weaponry, armor, and shielding. In order to counteract such acts of piracy the Empire began replacing its aging Nebulon B frigates with the new Nebulon C design.

The Nebulon C saw limited deployment in the Core region where it wasn't really needed as most commerce raids occured in the rim. The ship was actually used as an effective Star Destroyer escort vessel during the Emperor Palpatine's return.
