Description: The Zygerrian energy bow was a model of energy bow and crossbow utilized by a group of Zygerrian slavers that resided on the planet Ord Mantell shortly after the formation of the Galactic Empire. The bow fired pink bolts of energy and could be retracted when deactivated. When the former clone troopers of Clone Force 99 were sent to rescue Muchi, an adolescent rancor that the slavers held captive, the young clone Omega released the rancor as a distraction, and several slavers attempted to fire upon Muchi with their energy bows. Omega later came across one of the bows on the ground and picked up the weapon, carrying it with her.
