Planets D6 / Bora Vio

Name: Bora Vio
System: Lido system
Atmosphere: Breathable
Points of interest: Bora Vio cloning facility

Description: Bora Vio was a planet situated in the Lido system. The planet had a cloudy atmosphere, which hosted a Kaminoan facility that was abandoned by the time of the Galactic Empire. The Kaminoans utilized the facility on Bora Vio as a rendezvous for the bounty hunter Cad Bane to deliver the clone Omega to Taun We. However, fellow bounty hunter Fennec Shand was sent by the Kaminoan Nala Se to rescue Omega and prevent her from being handed over to Taun We. Omega was able to escape captivity, and as Shand fought Bane, she transmitted a signal from the facility and escaped on a flight pod. The former clone commando unit known as the Bad Batch, with whom Omega had been traveling, picked up the signal and rescued her from Bora Vio in their starship, Havoc Marauder.

Places of Interest
Bora Vio cloning facility
The Bora Vio cloning facility was maintained and later abandoned by the Kaminoans on Bora Vio. Early in the Imperial Era, Kaminoan Prime Minister Lama Su arranged a rendezvous at the facility between his aide Taun We and the bounty hunter Cad Bane so Bane could hand over the young clone Omega, whom he had retrieved. However, another hunter, Fennec Shand, was sent to the facility to rescue the girl, resulting in a fight between the two hunters.

The Bora Vio cloning facility contained embryo tubes which contained "failed experiments" with the corpses of sentient beings.

---

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.