Races D6 / Roonan

Name: Roonan
Designation: Sentient
Skin color: Green, gray, blue
Hair color: None
Eye color: Blue
Distinctions: Large amygdaloid eyes, tiny teeth
Homeworld: Roona
Attribute Dice: 12D

DEX: 2D/4D
KNO: 2D/4D
MEC: 2D/4D
PER: 2D/4D
STR: 2D/4D
TEC: 2D/4D

Special Abilities:

Particular: Roonan are reputed for being very picky and particular regarding details; the slightest error could be taken as a grievous insult. When performing a task which requires accuracy in its details they gain a +1D to their skill, however when accused of making a mistake they must make a Moderate Willpower test or must find the source of their error.

Move: 10/12

Description: The Roonans were a sentient species from Roona.

Biology and appearance
Roonans were short, bipedal humanoids with blue, almond-shaped eyes. They possessed two wide hands with five digits each, each digit being roughly the same length. They possessed fairly large, oval heads with wrinkled skin and small ears. According to C-3PO, Roonans had tiny teeth.

Society and culture
Most Roonans were considered highly particular, and saw the slightest mistake as a deep insult.

History
The Roonans were members of the Galactic Republic. During the last years of the Republic, Roona was represented in the Galactic Senate by Senator Edcel Bar Gane. Even before the Battle of Naboo, Gane had voiced concerns about Supreme Chancellor Finis Valorum's actions and their impact on the stability of the Republic as early as 33 BBY. He believed that Valorum's perceived ineffectiveness would further divide the myriad politicians of the Senate to extremes. Subsequently, when Queen Padmé Amidala moved for a Vote of No Confidence for Valorum, Gane seconded the motion, which was resoundingly successful.

During his time on Coruscant, Gane allied himself with the influential yet corrupt Senators Orn Free Taa, Passel Argente, and Toonbuck Toora, and was a supporter of then-Senator Palpatine. Despite his alliance with Taa, Gane vigorously disagreed with his fellow Senator following the bail-jumping of former Senator Tikkes, who had joined the Confederacy of Independent Systems. He believed that Tikkes was not guilty of the charges against him, but rather had fled Coruscant to avoid the same fate as Senator Aks Moe. Gane continued to serve in the Senate up until, and possibly through, the Clone Wars.

Around 22 BBY, a Roonan was a Match Master employed at the BlasTech Gikosphere on Coruscant. He presided over Team Coruscant's game against Team Fondor in the opening round of the Galactic Cup of Limmie. He interrupted the game after Fondor had taken a commanding lead.

During the Clone Wars, another Roonan Senator, Aang, was an important member of the Senate Military Oversight Committee.

One Roonan named Halsey was a member of the Jedi Order. He attended a meeting in the Jedi Temple communication center in which General Grievous informed the Jedi High Council of his capture of Jedi Master Eeth Koth, though he did not join the rescue team. Halsey later took his Padawan, Knox, to protect the contested Temple of Eedit on Devaron. They were soon attacked by Savage Opress, and though Halsey attempted to stop the Zabrak warrior, both he and Knox were killed.

The trade center CorusMall on Coruscant was operated by Roonans.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.