Biography

Joining Red Squadron

Shortly after the evacuation of Hoth in 3 ABY, Grizz Frix was recruited by Commander Wedge Antilles into the newly reformed Red Squadron, Lieutenant Wes Janson commented that he was another "hothead." On reporting on progress from sim training, Antilles told his superior The Contessa that Frix had no trouble flying in formation, but kept breaking formation to chase down targets.

Protecting the rendezvous point

Days after Antilles reformed Red Squadron, the squadron was sent on a mission. Frix flew a T-65B X-wing starfighter as Bela Elar's wingmate, alongside Penn Zowlie, in an attack on a nearby pirate base, that threatened the safety of the Alliance's rendezvous point. The squadron succeeded in eliminating the pirates.

Battle of Endor

During the Battle of Endor, Frix flew for Red Squadron under the callsign Red Five. He died when his T-65B X-wing starfighter exploded during an attack on an Imperial Star Destroyer.
