Description: A Clone Captain, also known as clone trooper captain, was a rank held by clone trooper officers in the Galactic Republic's Grand Army who commanded companies of 144 troopers, although this limitation did not apply to every captain. The sixteen captains of a regiment were in turn led by their respective Clone Commander, or in some cases, a Jedi General. Standard Phase I captains wore armor featuring four maroon circles on the left chest plate as well as a stripe of maroon down the length of each arm, vertically up the middle of the helmet and laterally around the visor.

CT-7567, also known by his nickname "Rex", was a respected and notable Clone Captain who served as the leader of the 501st Legion and the legion's Torrent Company. He often took orders directly from Jedi General Anakin Skywalker, and served as Skywalker's first in command. Rex also had authority over Execute Battalion and Carnivore Battalion of the 501st Legion.

In the final moments of the Clone Wars, Clone Captains, along with the rest of the Grand Army, were ordered by Supreme Chancellor Sheev Palpatine to betray and kill their Jedi Generals.
