Description: The human male Shaef Corssin was a competent and focused officer of the Galactic Empire's Imperial Navy. He served as the captain of the Imperial I-class Star Destroyer Devastator, flagship of the Sith Lord Darth Vader. In 0 BBY, the Devastator arrived above the planet Scarif as Alliance to Restore the Republic forces were attempting to escape with the plans to the Death Star superweapon. Corssin informed Vader once the Devastator had disabled the enemy flagship, and the Sith Lord ordered him to prepare a boarding party; however, a portion of the rebels eventually escaped with the Death Star plans.

Biography
Shaef Corssin was a human male member of the Imperial Navy's officer corps during the reign of the Galactic Empire. He served as captain of the Imperial I-class Star Destroyer Devastator, flagship of the Sith Lord Darth Vader. In 0 BBY, the Alliance to Restore the Republic attacked the Imperial forces stationed at Citadel Tower on the planet Scarif in order to steal the plans to the Death Star superweapon. Once the plans had been transmitted to the Alliance Fleet engaging the Imperial forces in orbit, Admiral Raddus gave the order to retreat by jumping to hyperspace.

As the ships began to jump, the Devastator arrived from hyperspace above Scarif, causing several smaller Alliance vessels to collide with the Star Destroyer and break apart on its hull. The Imperial vessel then opened fire upon Raddus' ship, the MC75 Star Cruiser Profundity, and managed to disable it, preventing it from fleeing. Corssin approached Vader upon the Devastator's bridge to let him know the enemy flagship was crippled, but also informed him about the transmission it had received.

The Sith Lord ordered Corssin to prepare a boarding party and left the bridge, joining the team to try and recover the Death Star plans; however, a small number of the rebels ultimately managed to escape with the plans aboard the CR90 corvette Tantive IV. The Devastator then gave chase after the corvette, before ultimately capturing it above the planet Tatooine and then returning to the Death Star. Corssin was no longer in command of the Devastator by the time of the Battle of Endor in 4 ABY, during which it was captained by Admiral Jhared Montferrat.

Personality and traits
Corssin was a competent and fiercely focused Imperial officer, speaking crisply when he addressed Vader on the Devastator's bridge. He had light skin, gray eyes, and blond hair.

Equipment
During the Battle of Scarif, Corssin wore black gloves and a standard gray Imperial officer's uniform that included a cap, an officer's disk, and another disk on the buckle of his black belt. On his breast, he wore three code cylinders alongside a rank insignia plaque that showed three red squares and two blue.
