Description: CT-3278 was a clone who served the Galactic Empire as a stormtrooper in the Imperial Army. Several months after the conclusion of the Clone Wars, CT-3278 was stationed on the planet of Serenno.

Biography
While serving on the planet Serenno, CT-3278 and two other clone stormtroopers were sent to the location of crashed cargo container that had been hijacked by rogue clones of Clone Force 99. Using BARC speeders, the three stormtroopers arrived at the container's location and set up a small perimeter. They eventually spotted Echo inside the container and opened fire, but he managed to close the container's door, trapping himself and Omega inside. In the meantime, one of the CT-3278's comrades set up a mounted cannon. After a while, another rogue clone of Clone Force 99, Tech, arrived and stunned one of the stormtroopers. CT-3278 and the other remaining stormtrooper proceeded to pin down Tech behind a tree with heavy blaster fire. CT-3278 then approached the tree, but was disarmed by Tech. Engaging in hand-to-hand combat, CT-3278 threw Tech to the ground and attempted to wrestle away control of the commando's DC-17 hand blaster, but was ultimately overwhelmed by Tech. Clone Force 99 would thereafter escape.
