Description: Flitterpods were fish found in the river of the forest planet Tenoo. They had black eyes, purple skin with stripes, a large pink-purple fin on their backs, and a thrice-forked tail. In 232 BBY, the Jedi younglings Kai Brightstar and Lys Solay were traveling down the river on a speeder alongside a group of flitterpods. Solay, who had heard of the creatures but was not aware that they lived in the area, became distracted while observing them flit in and out of the water, and she narrowly avoided crashing into a tree root thanks to a warning from Brightstar.
