Description: TK-343 was a TK stormtrooper in service to the Galactic Empire early during its reign. Around 18 BBY, they traveled as part of a small squad to Mount Tantiss on the planet Weyland; however, their shuttle was hit by lightning on final approach and crashed in the jungle outside the Imperial perimeter. TK-343 then contacted Mount Tantiss via comlink and requested back up, but none was sent and the trooper was killed by creatures of the jungle.

Biography
TK-343 was the designation of a TK stormtrooper that served in the Stormtrooper Corps of the Galactic Empire. In around 18 BBY, they traveled as part of a small three person squad on board the Nu-class attack/transport shuttle designated Shuttle 135 to the secret Imperial facility at Mount Tantiss on the planet Weyland; however, during the shuttle's final approach toward the mountain it was struck by lightning during a storm, which left its systems unresponsive.

Unable to restore power to the ship, Shuttle 135's pilot warned TK-343 and the other passengers stood in the shuttle's hold that they were going to crash. The vessel hit the ground in the jungle of sector four outside the perimeter of Mount Tantiss, but TK-343 and their squadmates survived the impact and staggered out of the vehicle after the pilot lowered the shuttle's ramp. Joined on the ground by the pilot, TK-343 then tried to establish contact with Mount Tantiss via comlink before another trooper suggested they move quickly, as the jungle was inhabited by dangerous creatures. TK-343 dismissed the threat, replying that Mount Tantiss's lurca hounds kept the threats at bay, but as the other trooper explained that the hounds were not effective this far from the base just as the group was interrupted by a growl from the treeline.

As the squad aimed their DC-15A blaster carbines in the direction of the noise, TK-343 contacted Mount Tantiss again and requested backup. The squad were then attacked by creatures, which they opened fire upon. At the base, Doctor Royce Hemlock listened to the sounds of the lost squad's blaster fire and TK-343's screams and ordered an Imperial technician not to send a recovery team, as the troopers were already good as dead if they were beyond the perimeter. The creatures of the jungle then killed TK-343 and the shuttle's other occupants.

Equipment
TK-343 wore white TK stormtrooper armor and used a DC-15A blaster carbine and a comlink.
