Description: The parasol auxiliary was a lightsaber auxiliary that extended the capabilities of the Sith lightsaber owned by Kouru, a female Sith warrior, to create her lightsaber parasol. The auxiliary was attached to the lightsaber hilt to channel the energy of the kyber crystal, directing it straight and then outward into multiple blades. The completed lightsaber resembled a parasol with a red canopy, particularly when it was rapidly spun to create a shield.
Shortly after Kouru constructed her lightsaber during the Sith rebellion, she received holographic blueprints designed by the Dark Lord of the Sith before he was known as the Ronin. She built her parasol auxiliary according to the blueprints.
